County school board to consider administrative transfers' again

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Controversial "administrative transfers" are on the agenda again for the Hancock County School Board's meeting Monday, July 21. This is the third time on the agenda for Superintendent Terrell Randolph's proposed personnel changes which in recent recommendations included transferring Hancock North Central High School Principal Donald Hillman to the Central Office as Assistant Superintendent in Charge Operations and moving Charles B. Murphy Principal Philip Terrell to Hancock North Central.

These moves have been previously blocked by the board by voting against the changes at the July 7 meeting and tabling the recommendations last week. Board Members Billie Faye Lyons, Tommy Shaw and George Ladner have all stated that they believe these transfers should not be made. "When you have a good thing going, as we do now, you should not mess with it," Lyons said. However Randolph said the current situation was "not working" and the changes are necessary for the good of the school district. "These changes are in the best interest of the district and are needed to help us meet the requirement of the performance based accreditation program," he added. Due to these problems as of last week no administrators in the district had contracts signed for the coming school year although the school board approved a list of administrators in March. The March list did not indicate any transfers. Randolph indicated Friday that the delay had already cost the district one administrator. At the previous meetings, administration recommendations have been included under one item on the agenda. For Monday's meeting several recommendations for employment of administrative level personnel have been listed separately. They include James Pair as assistant superintendent, Greg Jones as business manager, David Kopf as HNC high school assistant principal, Helen Mestayer as Chapter I supervisor, Dr. Diane Tucker as Hancock North Central Elementary Principal, Earlean Carter as transportation clerk and Jeannette Handshoe as special education director. In previous recommendations Tucker was to be named as a curriculum director and Kopf was listed as either junior high school principal or assistant high school principal. The board was willing to accept the majority of the recommendations last week but Randolph said they came as a package and the board must accept all or none. At the July 7 meeting Lyons questioned Randolph on a firm recommendation for junior high principal. Randolph said he would give the board a recommendation for that position when he was satisfied with the other appointments. Last week's recommendations included James I. Davis as junior high principal but was not approved as the entire list was tabled. There is no separate recommendation for a junior high principal on Monday's agenda. Randolph refused to confirm if this recommendation is included on the list of administrative transfers to be submitted Monday to the board. Lyon said the board does not have to go along with Randolph's every recommendation. "I don't feel it is fair for the students in the county to have to suffer because we will not accept his entire list of recommendations," Lyons said.

Three-day training session set for county kindergarten teachers

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
In a continued effort to comply with program goals of Early Childhood Education, the Hancock County School District has planned a special staff development program for early August. This intensive three-day inservice staff development for kindergarten teachers and aides will be conducted by Paula Triche, Early Childhood Consultant for the school district. According to Triche, the program will be an overview of the technicalities of kindergarten implementation including planning techniques, instructional delivery, classroom management, transitional activities and curriculum. "Emphasis will be placed on the effective use of the learning centers in the classroom," she said. School Superintendent Terrell Randolph said the district is making every effort to fully implement kindergarten as smoothly as possible. "Although all personnel are required to participate in regular staff development programs, since kindergarten in Mississippi is a new program we believed additional training is needed," he said. The program will be Aug. 4-7 at

Hancock North Central Elementary School. District Early Childhood Coordinator Philip Terrell said preparations for implementation of the kindergarten program had been going well. All teachers for the program have been located and many of the supplies for the kindergarten classrooms have already arrived at the schools, he added.

Cocaine seized, two arrested

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The Hancock County sheriff's office seized approximately one-half pound of cocaine from two subjects in a vehicle on US-90 in Waveland Friday night. John R. Veillon, 25, P.O. Box 293-A, Lakeshore, and Dennis Ray English, 1519 Blue Meadow Rd., Bay St. Louis, were arrested and charged with conspiracy to sell a controlled substance and possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell and deliver, according to Hancock County Criminal Investigator Alvin Ladner.

Ladner estimated the street value of the cocaine seized at $15-20,000. "A St. Tammany Parish officer and a Slidell police department officer, both who are assigned to a Drug Enforcement Agency New Orleans task force, were called in as undercover agents in the case," Ladner stated. Veillon and English are lodged in the Hancock County jail with bond set at $50,000 each, Ladner said. The substance was described as 'rock' cocaine by Ladner, who said the Ford LTD they were transporting

Bay teenager injured in 'blue hole' accident

By ELLIS CUEVAS
A Bay St. Louis 16-year-old remained in Gulf Coast Community Hospital Saturday after a swimming accident late Thursday in a 'blue hole' off Bayou LaCroix Road. Officers said the youth suffered injuries when he dove into the 'blue hole' in water approximately three and half feet deep. Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson identified the youth as Aloysius Farve, 16, 206 Toulme St., Bay St. Louis. A spokesman for Gulf Coast Community Hospital on Saturday morning, said Farve was in the intensive care unit and listed his condition as 'very stable'. Hancock Deputy Mike Anderson in a police report of the incident said, witnesses with Farve reported he and dove into the water and reportedly touched bottom and floated (surfaced) in a face down position and remained immobile for a short time. The group had been camping in tents and campers by the 'blue hole'. After realizing Farve was in distress, several friends entered the water to help him, he conveyed to them that he was paralyzed and in pain, the officer stated in his report. A relative of the teenager notified authorities. Farve was taken by Mobile Medic to Hancock General Hospital, transferred to Gulfport Memorial Hospital and then to Gulf Coast Community Hospital. Hancock officers at the scene were Anderson and Tommy Burleson. Hancock Criminal Investigator Glen Strong is in charge of the case, Peterson said.

Bay school board sets public hearing

By DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board will hold a public hearing to discuss the district's 1986-87 budget at 7 p.m. Monday.

The hearing will be held in the superintendent's office at Bay Senior High and is designed to provide the board with public input on the budget for the coming fiscal year. Superintendent Roger D. Oge said he has checked district records and has found that the informational hearing is the first of its kind for the Bay St. Louis district. He said neither the state nor the school district requires a hearing prior to official action on the budget. The hearing is part of the superintendent's community involvement program. No action can be taken at a hearing and the board has scheduled a

Grand Jury recommends consolidation

The July Hancock County Grand Jury has turned in five recommendations, including consolidation of law enforcement services and schools. The report was submitted to Circuit Judge Frank W. Alexander Friday and signed by Grand Jury Foreman Margaret B. Walter. The Grand Jury recommended a joint meeting between mayors of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to consider consolidation of the Waveland and Bay St. Louis police departments and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. The Hancock County Board of Supervisors voted Wednesday to meet on July 30 to discuss consolidation of law enforcement and some school-related services. The Grand Jury has also recommended that "all county and city administrators work closely together toward unifying the separate school systems to more effectively and economically service the educational needs of our community."

Other recommendations included continuation of improvements at Bayou Cadet by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, providing better quarters for the Hancock County Welfare Department and use of funds seized by law enforcement agencies for purchase of electronic surveillance equipment. The text of the Grand Jury report follows: IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI
TO: THE HONORABLE FRANK W. ALEXANDER, CIRCUIT JUDGE PRESIDING:
FINAL REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY JULY, 1986 TERM
We, the Grand Jury for the July, 1986 Term of Court, having been selected, sworn and charged, submit the following Final Report: We were empanelled July 7, 1986. We have considered a total of ninety-two (92) cases of which we returned twenty-two (22) true bills, three (3) no true bills, left two (2) cases pending to be passed to the next Grand Jury, and referred four (4) cases to other courts for disposition. The Grand Jury recommends that the January, 1987 Grand Jury be furnished copies of this report as their first order of business and that the Grand Jury will make a diligent inquiry to see if the recommendations made in the previous Grand Jury report have been followed. We recommend that the January, 1987 Grand Jury be allowed to take the tour prior to the reports of the officials. All county supervisors and administrators of the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are to be furnished copies of this report, as well as State Senators Martin Smith and Gene Taylor, State Representative Walter James Phillips, and the school boards of Bay St. Louis Separate Municipal School District and Hancock County, and the State Board of Education. We recommend that the duly elected supervisors of Hancock County read and study the findings and recommendations of this Grand Jury and make them a part of their minutes. The Grand Jury heard reports from the following officials: Mr. Eddie Murtagh, Hancock County tax assessor and collector; Mr. Terrell Randolph, superintendent of Hancock County Schools; Mr. Mike Necaise, Hancock County chancery clerk; Marion Parker, Mississippi Forestry Commission; Mr. James DeBlanc, director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission; Mr. Dolph Kellar, president of the Board of Supervisors; and Mr. Alvin Ladner, investigator, Hancock County Sheriff's Department. We are satisfied that these offices are operating efficiently and within the scope of their duties. In addition, the Grand Jury toured the Hancock County Sheriff's Office and jail; the Tax Assessor's annex, Bayou Cadet facilities, Stennis Field Airport facilities, and the Port Bienvenue Industrial Park. We thank the Hancock County Retired Senior Citizens Volunteer Program for furnishing the Grand Jury with transportation and a driver.

Experimental aircraft association seeking new home base at Stennis

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission is going back to the drawing board with Chapter 479 of the Experimental Aircraft Association.

The commission has been working with members of the association since February to find land at Stennis International Airpark for the location of the organization's facilities.

Commission Director James DeBlanc said the association is looking for a new home base for their chapter which is currently located in Lyman.

Commission Member Dave McDonald presented a report to other commissioners last week which included a fourth proposal for a site for the association.

The proposal called for the commission to lease a parcel of three acres of land reserved for aeronautical uses at Stennis to EEA for $50 per month for 15 years with a renewal privilege of 10 extra years.

According to the agreement, the commission would also construct a shelled road entrance to the property for the association.

However the site was not acceptable to EEA representatives at the meeting and following a discussion, the commissioners agreed to investigate other alternatives.

According to DeBlanc the work with these aircrafts is basically a hobby for the association members.

The location of the EEA at Stennis will not create any new jobs but will create a small revenue for the fixed base operator, he added.

DeBlanc said the association does hold an annual airshow which can draw a large number of aircraft from throughout the United States.

Also at the meeting the lease for the Mississippi Railway and Transportation Museum, Inc. which operates at Port Bienville Industrial Park was discussed.

Commissioner Nancy Gex reported that the group's current lease was expired and another lease was being negotiated.

G. V. Cannon, president of the group, requested the board waive the monthly rental fee of $1,250 since the organization is planning to construct a spur line in the park.

The commission agreed they could not dismiss the fees.

DeBlanc said Friday the new lease was expected to be signed that day.

In other business, DeBlanc reported the Federal Aviation Administration had agreed to provide an extra $12,741 to pay for cost overruns on the parallel taxiway project. The entire cost of the project is nearly $330,000.

Bay man receives four-year sentence on fondling charges

James L. Mayfield Jr., 42, of Bay St. Louis, received a four-year jail sentence July 15 in Circuit Court at Gulfport in connection with a May conviction on fondling charges.

Judge James Thomas handed down the sentence but took under advisement a motion by Mayfield for a new trial and allowed him to remain free on a $2,000 bond pending a decision on the motion.

Mayfield was convicted in Hancock County Circuit Court following an eight-year-old child's testimony against him.

Drowning of Gretna youth ruled accidental

BY DENA BISNETTE

Investigators have determined that the death of a 12-year-old Louisiana boy who drowned in the Mississippi Sound off Waveland last Saturday was accidental.

The body of Sidney Wayne Smith of Gretna, La., who drowned July 12, was found July 13 at about 6 a.m., Coroner Harold Stiglet said.

The body had washed up on the beach near Waveland Avenue after authorities from Hancock County Sheriff's Department, Hancock County Dive Rescue Unit, Waveland Police Department and Waveland Fire Department had discontinued their search for the boy because of darkness.

Smith had apparently been playing in the water with other youths near Gulfside Assembly shortly after noon the day he died, Stiglet said.

Smith reportedly could not swim, he added.

Witnesses told authorities that some of the other youths who could not swim had gone back toward the beach, but Smith had continued out into deeper water with several others.

Stiglet ruled the death an accident. The body was sent to Rhodes Funeral Home in Gretna for services and burial.

Hearing

special meeting for 7 p.m. Thursday to act on the budget.

The proposed budget will be available at the superintendent's office for public viewing Tuesday afternoon prior to the hearing as well as during the office business hours Wednesday and Thursday, the superintendent said.

"We are actively seeking public input into the budget process," the superintendent said.

Unlike a regular meeting, where board Policy 18 requires speakers to be listed on the agenda, anyone is invited to comment.

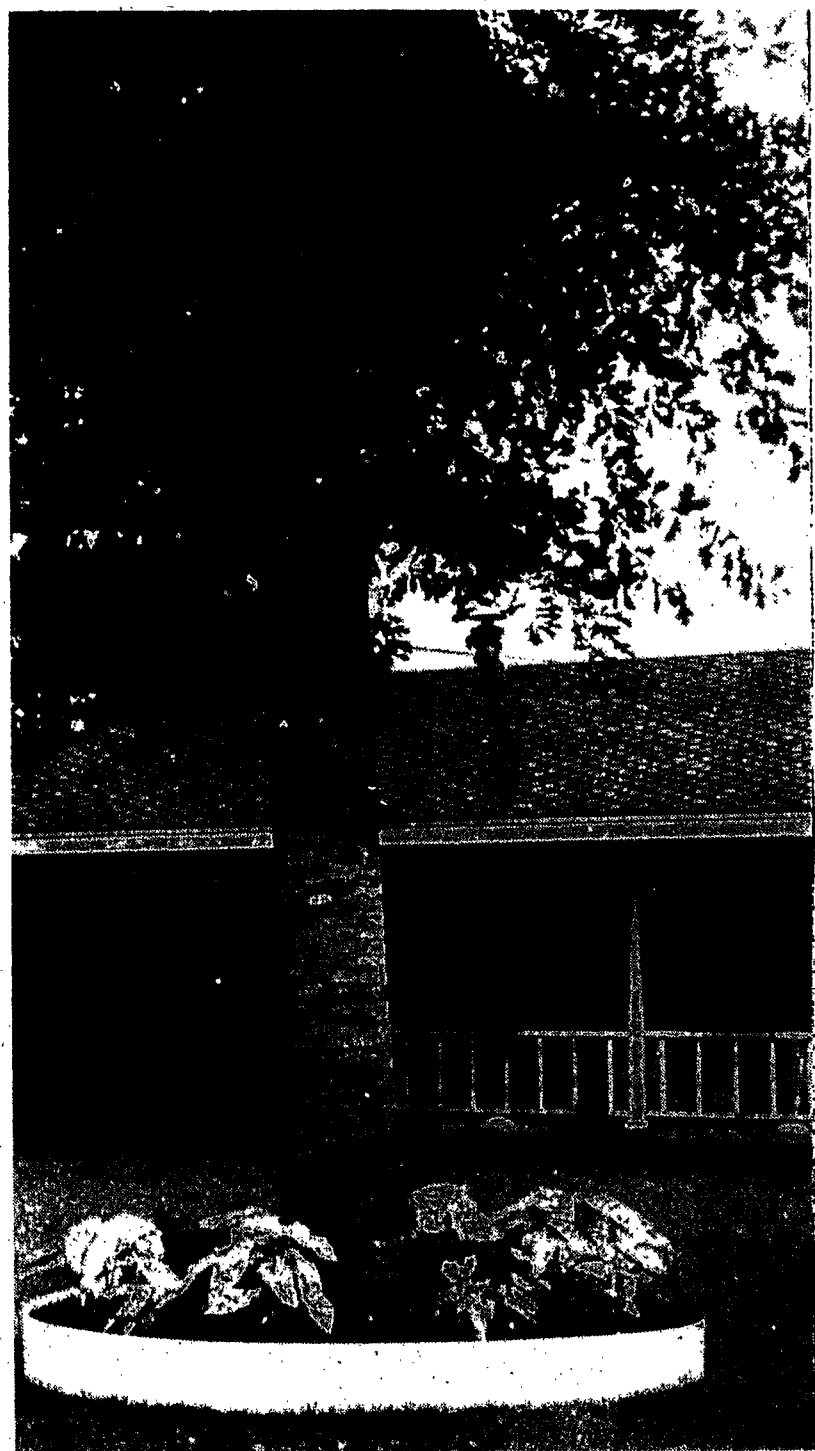

"That policy would be inappropriate for this kind of meeting. We want people to feel comfortable about making comments and asking questions," he added.

Oge said the budget proposal is late this year, but explained that the matter was delayed by the recently resolved controversy on kindergarten facilities.

However, he said he had contacted officials of the State Department of Education and had received permission to submit the budget after the July 15 deadline.

Thursday's agenda includes discussion and possible action on proposed 1988-89 budget; discussion on personnel changes; and discussion and possible action on use of classrooms at St. Rose de Lima School.

Ambulance service membership a must July is once again membership month for Mobile Medic Ambulance Service for the coming year.

This August will begin the 13th year of the ambulance service which covers Hancock and West Harrison counties.

The membership fee for a family is $39 (same as the last three years), which includes husband, wife and children under the age of 21 at home.

During the past 12 years Mobile Medic has visited every block of city streets and miles of the rural roads of Hancock County.

The number of calls increase each year as our population continues to grow.

We at the newspaper probably get an opportunity to see Mobile Medic in action more than the average citizen because of our coverage of automobile accidents in the county.

The efficiency of Mobile Medic has continuously improved over the years, credited in a small measure to the continuing education of the ambulance attendants.

The benefits of the $39 are unmatched when you consider a non-member would pay much more than $100 plus additional costs for services for a single in-county call.

We know many people feel they are not old enough to worry about needing Mobile Medic services, but one must realize many of the calls over the years have been for very young children and teen-agers involved in accidents.

We realize many residents may say their insurance will cover the cost for ambulance service. This is true in some cases, but most of the time personal insurance only covers a portion of ambulance services.

We never know what time of the day or night we may need the service, no matter what our age.

July is the only month to subscribe at the low rate of $39 per family. You can get a coupon from an advertisement in this issue of The Sea Coast Echo.

We hope you won't need their services for the coming year, but if you need them and have a family membership, you will save many dollars.

IN CONGRESS

By Congressman Trent Lott

VISTA: THE PURSUIT OF MEANINGFUL ACTIVITY BY OUR SENIOR CITIZENS

Unfortunately too many pieces of legislation come through the Congress involving social spending which end up being a waste of taxpayer dollars because their provisions benefit only a few, with no residual effect on communities or their economies.

A sound exception is the Domestic Volunteer Service Act which the House of Representatives took up during the week of June 8.

This bill commonly referred to as VISTA includes some outstanding programs which were created in 1969 with the passage of the Older Americans Act.

Among them are the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), a program for senior Americans which exemplifies what Congress declared as an objective in the Older Americans Act—the pursuit of meaningful activity within the widest range of civic, cultural and recreational opportunities.

Our south Mississippi RSVPs this year are joining their counterparts nationwide—age 60 and above—in celebrating their 15th anniversary of demonstrating that the human potential to be involved and to serve others does not diminish with retirement.

In their Mississippi communities, RSVPs have taken leadership roles as chairpersons, and officers of the major councils representing senior citizens.

They work to improve the lives of nursing home residents and to provide health services.

Perhaps most important, they serve the younger generation by acting as role models for teenaged mothers, by working with retarded children and with kids in school who just need a little help.

The Domestic Volunteer Service Act also funds the Foster Grandparents program for senior citizens age 60 or older who work under the sponsorship of nonprofit agencies and institutions such as schools, hospitals and day-care centers to help children with problems resulting from physical, mental or emotional disabilities.

The legislation taken up by the Congress compensates Foster Grandparents, who work 20 hours per week, with small financial stipends, annual physical examinations, accident and personal liability insurance, on-the-job meals and transportation.

The Foster Grandparents and RSVP programs offer Mississippians of all ages the chance to lend a helping hand to their neighbors in need. Both the volunteer and the communities in which they serve benefit.

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

JACKSON—My office Wednesday announced the distribution of $23.8 million in energy funds received by the State of Mississippi in a settlement of a lawsuit with Exxon.

We have awarded the funds to projects dealing with energy conservation and assistance for individuals, public agencies and private businesses.

In an order issued in February in U. S. District Court for the District of Columbia, Judge Thomas A. Flannery ordered Exxon to repay more than $2 billion to the various states for overcharging consumers for their products.

Mississippi's portion of that money is $23.8 million. The state has five years to spend the remaining $4.5 million in the state's portion of the settlement. There are other suggestions for projects in energy-related areas that may need clearance from the U. S. Department of Energy.

Under the court order, the funds cannot be used for the state's general fund and could not substitute or supplant state monies. The court order specifies that the money can be used only for specific classes of energy conservation programs.

"We tried to select programs that would directly benefit individuals, state and local agencies and businesses and that would reap a long-term benefit for them in terms of energy costs savings.

These decisions were made in consultation with the Fiscal Management Board, Department of Energy and Transportation, Office of General Services, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, legislators, businesses and governmental entities."

Although the state has had the money for a few months, the designation of projects receiving a share of the funds was held up because of Congressional concerns as to oversight and audit efforts to broaden uses of the funds. We wanted to make certain that we awarded these funds according to the wishes of the court and the U. S. Department of Energy, so we wouldn't jeopardize any of our projects. Washington has now cleared the way for us to spend the funds.

The $23.8 million will be divided among five existing programs and two special projects. The U. S. District Court, in its order, directed that the funds be used in a manner as set out in the Warner Amendment, and that a report be made annually to the Court and the U. S. Department of Energy as to the manner in which the funds are used. These are basically five energy conservation programs.

The Warner Amendment limits the state's use of restitution funds to activities that fall within existing federal energy conservation programs and their associated regulations. The five energy conservation programs identified in the Warner Amendment are: the State Energy Conservation Program, the Energy Extension Service Program, the Institutional Conservation Program, the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, and the Weatherization Assistance Program.

The Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs administers the Weatherization Assistance Program and Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program. Assistance from both programs is available to individuals through local Community Action Agencies. Elderly and handicapped individuals are given priority in both programs.

The Weatherization Assistance Program will receive $5 million of the Exxon funds. The program serves approximately 2,000 households per year with an average maximum expenditure of $1,600 allowable per unit. The program is intended for the homes of low income persons. It is designed to reduce energy consumption and reduce the impact of higher fuel costs on low income families.

Funds are available to install insulation, inside storm windows, caulking, weatherstripping, furnace tune-ups and safety checks, and for other improvements to conserve energy.

The Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program will receive $2 million of the Exxon funds. The program serves 70,000 households per year with an average payment of $160. The program is designed to help low income households with their home heating and cooling bills. The size of payments varies according to such factors as income, heating costs, whether or not the housing is subsidized, and the number of households sharing the bills. Income guidelines applying to these funds can be obtained from Federal-State programs.

The Mississippi Department of Energy and Transportation administers the remaining three programs.

The Institutional Conservation Program will receive $10 million to award matching grants for technical assistance studies to public and private nonprofit schools and hospitals, local government agencies and public care institutions. The State presently has $4 million undesignated in repair and renovation funds that can be used in the 50-50 match for this program. In addition, matching funds are available only to schools and hospitals to install energy conservation measures.

The Energy Extension Service Program will receive $150,000 for Energy Education and $100,000 for Residential Information. The goal of this program is to offer small-scale energy users—such as homeowners, renters, and small businesses—face-to-face technical help and information on saving energy and money on utility bills. Projects that may be eligible for this funding include workshops for commercial buildings; education programs for public or private schools; tests of buildings for energy efficiency; home energy rating systems, similar to mileage ratings for automobiles; and workshops or other information on alternative energy resources, such as solar or wind.

The State Energy Conservation Program will receive $750,000 for Transportation Management for schools, state agencies and institutions, and local governments (i.e., bus routing and scheduling); $110,000 for Promotional and marketing of public transportation; $1.5 million for Industrial Technical Assistance for businesses, factories, and processing plants (i.e., energy audits); $500,000 for Commercial Technical Assistance; $750,000 for Local Government Technical Assistance (advise on energy cost savings); and $1 million for Public School Technical Assistance.

This program is designed to promote efficient use of energy resources.

The two special projects will require approval from the U. S. Department of Energy. The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory will receive $500,000 for technical assistance for the seafood industry and fishing fleets to help in dealing with processing, fleet fueling and energy costs. The Capitol Complex will receive $500,000 for a utility retrofit to reduce the demand pressure on the existing overloaded and inefficient electrical systems.

DeBERRY APPOINTED DEPARTMENT OF PLANNING AND POLICY DIRECTOR

Gov. Bill Allain has appointed Dr. Roy DeBerry as director of the Department of Planning and Policy, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

DeBerry, who has served as assistant director of the department since 1984, formerly was associate professor of political science at Jackson State University and dean of academic and student affairs and associate professor of political science at Mississippi Industrial College. At the college, he directed a Youthwork Biomedical Project which served as a demonstration for training rural high-risk youth in biomedical and science-related careers. DeBerry also was assistant professor of political science at Rust College and served as an Afro-American Department teaching and research fellow and Upward Bound Program tutor and counselor at Brandeis University.

A native of Holly Springs, DeBerry studied at Harvard University and received his B.A., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Brandeis. He was vice president of the Mississippi unit of the American Civil Liberties Union and is a member of the American Association of University Professors, American Political Science Association, National Association of Black Political Scientists and the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

The Department of Planning and Policy is a resource and information center for other departments of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs and grant subrecipients in planning and reviewing vital programs. It seeks out maximum benefits for Mississippi from federal programs by monitoring federal government activities.

Penrose owes an apology

July 15, 1988
To the Editor:

I attended my first School Board meeting at the urging of the Sea Coast Echo.

I attended my second meeting on Monday (July 14) night after reading in the Echo that Linda Penrose read a statement in which she was quoted as saying that some of those attending meetings either had no children or paid no taxes.

At the Monday night meeting she confirmed to me that she did, indeed, make that statement.

Such a statement made by an elected official is unconscionable and very shortsighted.

I voted for Mrs. Penrose at the request of a friend who told me she was a "fighter"—apparently for only certain things or certain groups of people.

Public education needs the interest of all of the citizens of our state. Mrs. Penrose owes an apology to a lot of people.

Life before the statue

Before the famous statue gazed out from New York Harbor to the world's tired, poor and huddled masses, Liberty Island already had been the home to many unfortunates. It even had a role during the Civil War.

Mohegan Indians called it Minnis-sais, or Lesser Island. The Dutch referred to it as Boar, Oyster and Great Oyster. Though owned by merchant Isaac Bedloe in 1670, New York Royal Governor Francis Lovelace showed his vanity by dubbing it Love Island.

It eventually was renamed Bedloe's, which later became Bedlow's. Under the Federal Government, the "w" was changed to an "e" before the island was rechristened Liberty in 1956.

Many things have happened on the island since the Mohegans and before Liberty. Loyalists to the British Crown huddled there during the Revolution and diseased citizens were quarantined at several different times. Its use during the Lincoln Administration, however, is of particular interest to a group of Civil War buffs.

According to the Civil War Round Table of New York, one of over 100 such organizations concerned with the preservation of events and sites relating to that historical period, the statue rests on Fort Wood, an old stone fortification built in the early 1800s to protect the city. During the 1860s, it was a recruiting station, ordnance depot, military hospital and prison for about 127 southern troops.

The Round Table proudly noted that a former Civil War general, William T. Sherman, was asked to find a permanent home for the statue in 1877. After the island was selected, the job of building the pedestal atop Fort Wood was given to Charles P. Stone, another former Civil War general.

Information about local and national Civil War organizations can be obtained from Civil War Round Table Associates, PO Box 7388, Little Rock, Arkansas 72217.

'Caveat emptor' best advice for real estate buyer

By Dr. William B. Rayburn
Assistant Professor of Finance,
Insurance, and Real Estate
University of Southern Mississippi

Many people in the process of purchasing or refinancing a house have been experiencing what I refer to as "closing shock." This occurs when a borrower attempts to close a mortgage loan on a personal residence and has no conception of the amount of fees involved.

Most first-time homebuyers believe the 5 or 10 percent downpayment is the only money they will have to come up with out of their own pockets at closing. For example, suppose you purchase a $60,000 house. Five percent as a downpayment would be only $3,000. Now suppose closing costs totaled another five percent—that's another $3,000. Learning of this figure usually at the time of the loan application can be a "shock" for new homebuyers.

There are several types of costs incurred which lumped together are referred to as "closing costs." These costs are normally quoted and assessed in terms of "points." A "point" is one percent of the loan amount. For example, if you were charged 5 points on our $60,000 house downpayment, you would pay $3,000 in closing costs. You paid $60,000 for the house and a 5 percent downpayment was $3,000 which left you with $57,000 to finance on your mortgage. Since 1 point is 1 percent, then 5 points is 5 percent which in this example is .05 times $57,000 or $3,000. This amount plus the $3,000 downpayment gives us a total of $6,000 in our example.

Some of the closing costs usually incurred are:

—Origination fee—the fee charged to process the paperwork on your loan. This is usually 1 or 2 points but will depend on the lender.

—Discount fee—the fee charged to increase the yield on your loan. Most lenders must sell your loan ultimately to someone in the secondary mortgage market to turn over their money. Participants in this secondary mortgage market set yields and prices at which they will purchase loans. To sell your loan, your lender must get this yield or they will usually bear the loss. The discount fee is usually from 2 to 5 points but will vary depending on market conditions.

—Attorney's fee—the fee charged by the attorney which may include a check of the list of previous owners (necessary to ensure that the seller has good title); preparation of a uniform closing statement for residences, and preparation of a deed and other documents relating to the mortgage. The attorney may charge a flat fee of a few hundred dollars or 1 or 2 points for a residence.

—Appraisal fee—the fee charged by an appraiser to ensure that the house is worth what you are paying and what the lender is lending to you. On some types of loans, fees are set by law; however, most residential appraisals cost from $200 to $300.

—Survey fee—fee charged by surveyor to basically ensure that the house is on the right parcel of land. The fee will usually be from $100 to $300. Imagine buying a house on the wrong lot!

—Pest inspection fee—the fee charged by the pest inspection company to ensure that the dwelling is currently free from certain kinds of pests (for example, termites), and in many cases a continuing guarantee for treatment. The fee may range from a few dollars to several hundred depending on the house and area.

—Credit report fee—fee charged by the credit agency that checks your credit. Fees usually range from $20 to $100 depending on the firm and the area.

There are other charges which may or may not apply, but these are the major ones. Under the Real Estate Settlement and Procedures Act (RESPA) any federally regulated lender will be required, for most personal residences, to give you a booklet describing these costs and other items at the time you make application for the loan or within 3 days.

If you have further questions, you may write to me at the University of Southern Mississippi, Southern Station Box 5076, Hattiesburg, MS 39406-5076.

Grand Jury.....

The Grand Jury makes the following recommendations:

1) that the mayors and boards of supervisors meet with the express purpose of consolidation of the three law enforcement agencies to better service and more economically handle the entire county's needs;

2) the Grand Jury strongly urges that the Board of Supervisors take immediate action to provide adequate facilities for the Welfare Department as stated in the January, 1986 Grand Jury Report;

3) that all county and city administrators and boards of education work closely together toward unifying the separate school systems to more effectively and economically service the educational needs of our community;

4) that the Port & Harbor Commission continue improvements at Bayou Cadet and monitor conditions there on a regular basis;

5) that funds seized by various law enforcement agencies from illegal activities be used to purchase quality electronic surveillance equipment for use by the law enforcement agencies.

The Grand Jury appreciates the good work by the local law enforcement agencies in uncovering racketeering activities in Hancock County and encourages them to continue in their endeavors.

This Grand Jury worked in unison and harmony in carrying out all its duties and responsibilities. We wish to express our gratitude to the Court; District Attorney Cono A. Carama III, Assistant District Attorney J. P. Compretta, Assistant District Attorney Herman F. Cox and Prosecuting Attorney John Genin for their guidance and assistance.

Finally, we would like to thank the Honorable Frank W. Alexander for the charge he gave us when we empaneled. Our tenure has been very educational and enlightening into the problems of Hancock County.

We have completed our duties and respectfully ask to finally be discharged this the 18th day of July, 1986.

National amateur songwriting contest opens August 1

Nearly 500 radio stations, cable TV's "The Nashville Network" and Kentucky Fried Chicken will join forces during August to launch a nationwide talent search for undiscovered songwriters — the 10th Annual Kentucky Fried Chicken Amateur Songwriting Contest.

National contest winners receive a shot at the top — a chance to have their tunes recorded by Sylvia, the 1986 guest artist, whose songs "Nobody" and "Drifter" have topped the charts. Sylvia will choose and record the two winning songs which will be distributed to radio stations nationwide.

"I know how tough it is to break into the recording industry, having done it myself," said Sylvia. "So I'm just delighted that Kentucky Fried Chicken has given me the opportunity to help new talent get started."

In 1985, The Nashville Network catapulted the contest on to network television. They're on board again this year, offering their spotlight to the two talented composers who hit the winning notes.

It's a dream come true for the winners. Last year's winning songs were featured on '85 contest guest artist Charly McClain and her singer/husband Wayne Massey's album "When Love Is Right" and were later released on the flip side of two singles.

The contest officially runs August 1 to 30 and is open to any amateur songwriter who has never had a song distributed nationally.

To enter, songwriters must compose and record an original song, no longer than 3½ minutes, on a cassette tape.

Entrants may submit as many different songs as they wish, but each must be submitted on a separate cassette, include written lyrics and a statement of originality for each, attesting that each song is original and composed by the contestant.

The composer's printed name, address, home and work phone numbers, signature, date, and song title must also be included on the entry.

Writers may enter through the local radio station co-sponsoring the contest, or mail entries directly to KFC Songwriting Contest '86, Box 1800-R, 8033 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood, CA 90046.

Entries must be postmarked by Sept. 2. Because of the volume of entries, no tapes can be returned. Composers of the top ten winning songs will be notified by Nov. 15, 1986.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

Top Home Interest: Location
Question: I am of the opinion that the specific location of a home is more important in terms of trying to sell the property. What is the importance of this factor in the eyes of most buyers? M.J. Jackson

Answer: Dear M.J.:

You have no doubt heard the old saying about "the three most important factors in determining the value of real estate — location, location and location."

The point is, that location is important in the eyes of users of real estate and your opinion would appear to be closely in line with what many others think.

Location of a new home with respect to the neighborhood and its proximity to work are the top considerations among people buying homes in a new community.

The most recent study undertaken by a national relocation network of real estate brokerage firms found that 48 percent of the people who responded to the survey listed location as their first consideration in choosing a particular home.

A distant second in terms of importance, but still an important consideration as listed by 19 percent of the respondents, was the quality of schools. Obviously this consideration would be of more importance to those family units with school-age children.

Sixteen percent of those responding listed the price and size of the home as the prime factors in their decision to buy a specific house.

Both of these factors continue to play important roles in which particular house a potential buyer decides to purchase.

The remaining people responding to the survey listed a number of additional factors important to them. Those listed included good resale opportunity, construction quality and the type of financing available.

As a seller of property, you would certainly want to remember how these factors rank in importance if and when you attempt to market your property.

Recording star Sylvia will lend her talents to the 1986 Kentucky Fried Chicken Amateur Songwriting Contest as guest artist. The contest officially opens August 1.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

Top Home Interest: Location
Question: I am of the opinion that the specific location of a home is more important in terms of trying to sell the property. What is the importance of this factor in the eyes of most buyers? M.J. Jackson

Answer: Dear M.J.:
You have no doubt heard the old saying about "the three most important factors in determining the value of real estate — location, location and location."

The point is, that location is important in the eyes of users of real estate and your opinion would appear to be closely in line with what many others think.

Location of a new home with respect to the neighborhood and its proximity to work are the top considerations among people buying homes in a new community.

The most recent study undertaken by a national relocation network of real estate brokerage firms found that 48 percent of the people who responded to the survey listed location as their first consideration in choosing a particular home.

A distant second in terms of importance, but still an important consideration as listed by 19 percent of the respondents, was the quality of schools. Obviously this consideration would be of more importance to those family units with school-age children.

Sixteen percent of those responding listed the price and size of the home as the prime factors in their decision to buy a specific house.

Both of these factors continue to play important roles in which particular house a potential buyer decides to purchase.

The remaining people responding to the survey listed a number of additional factors important to them. Those listed included good resale opportunity, construction quality and the type of financing available.

As a seller of property, you would certainly want to remember how these factors rank in importance if and when you attempt to market your property.

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

A controlled calving program would make money for Hancock County beef producers.

Most of the cow herds in the county calve on a year round system. Of these herds nearly 40 percent of the calves are born in the summer months of June, July and August.

Summer born calves can be expected to weigh 70 pounds lighter at weaning than calves born at other times of the year.

Why do some producers calve year round? Some reasons include:

1. May miss a calf. Rather have a late calf than none at all.
2. Bull can breed more cows on a year round basis.
3. Hard to keep a bull up during off season. Need calves to sell all year long.

While some of these reasons are hard to argue with, the advantages of a controlled season are greater. They include:

1. Percent calf crop is greater. Short calving season aids management.
2. Better records on cows and calves can be kept.
3. Herd health practices can be carried out to a much greater extent. There is little variation in the herd.
4. Labor requirements would be less if a short calving season was observed.
5. Nutrition can be improved by feeding more efficiently. Dry cows can be fed separately from cows nursing calves. Dry cows require 50 percent less feed.

6. Marketing a calf crop can be improved by having a uniform calf crop.

How strict should a calving season be? A ninety day season is a reasonable goal. A producer that calves in a 90 day season can increase weaning weights of calves 90 pounds over a producer that calves on a 6 month season.

What is the best time to calve, generally from October through March 31st. However this depends on:

1. Feed supply
2. Labor
3. Use of calves
4. Winter weather.

INSECT CONTROL

Several gardens I have looked at are really populated by stink bugs. I've also had several tomatoes brought into the office with stink bug damage. You can identify the damage by small black sized pinholes surrounded by a halo of yellow. Corn has also been affected by these pests. Some fields have been damaged to the point of losing 50% of the crop or more.

The entomologists at MSU are recommending Thiodan to control stink bugs although liquid seven should help.

Ornamental are being plagued by leaf hopper and lace wings. These are usually seen on azaleas. Diazinon or Spectracide should do the job.

plant this spring's crop.

"Without some kind of professional assistance, many of these farmers may not have received a crop loan this year," Williams said.

Extension Economist Dr. Lennie Kizer, who helps administer the program, said while farmers in almost all areas of agriculture have used the hotline, row crop farmers and beef producers seem to be experiencing the most severe problems.

"It's difficult to show a profit in a specific year with many of these commodities," Kizer said.

Both Williams and Kizer agree that the poor farm economy in Mississippi is far from over.

"Although farmers have planted this year's crop, some will be faced with larger debts than profits this fall," Williams said. "At least 25 percent of our farmers are still experiencing severe financial difficulty."

Kizer said the hotline has helped farmers understand the importance of finances and particularly the value of record keeping. He said the program also should benefit others in the long run.

"As the farm picture eventually begins to improve, this will help local communities by putting more money into circulation," he said.

Plans call for making the hotline available to farmers through the spring of 1987. Farmers who need financial counseling are encouraged to call the toll-free number at 1-800-654-6237.

Telephone calls may be placed weekdays between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. There is no charge for the call.

Slow and gradual

Erosion alters state

(Editor's Note: Mississippi and the nation's farmland have undergone tremendous changes in the last 500 years. In the last of a four-part series on 500-year problems, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, Land Use Coordinator, Bob Chapin, explains erosion's role in changing the landscape and why the problem must be corrected for the future of mankind.)

By Ralph J. Ballew

Erosion through the centuries has changed the face of the landscape of America and of Mississippi.

Mountains 30,000 feet high in Iuka are now almost level, surface rock near Biloxi is buried under 30,000 feet of soil deposits and unproductive Selma chalk is exposed in much of the blackland prairies.

Dr. Bob Chapin, coordinator of the Land Use Center of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said the erosion problem must be solved.

The issue of erosion is one of several that must be dealt with in the next 500 years, Chapin said. Other long-range problems are climatic changes, groundwater contamination and the loss of species.

"The purpose of 500-year planning is not to decide what to plan for 500 years in the future, but to identify problems that must be corrected during that time period," Chapin said.

A 500-year problem is one that is statistically likely to happen sometime in the next 500 years. There are recent examples of the importance of planning to avoid future problems.

For example, severe flooding on the Mississippi River, with levees designed for floods to occur only once in 250 years, approached the 100-year high in 1975 at Vicksburg.

"The wearing away of land by rain, water, wind and gravitational creep is responsible for erosion," Chapin said. "And these changes are so slow and gradual that the generation alive at any one time hardly notices any changes at all."

Chapin said tremendous changes have occurred in farmland in the last 500 years, and erosion must be controlled during the next 500 years or most of mankind will surely perish.

Chapin credits know-how and modern chemicals with much of the progress in erosion control. He believes conservation-minded farmers using no-till and other practices will result in much less change in cropland erosion in the future.

"The major problem areas will come from increased timber harvest, conversion of grassland into cropland to feed an expanding population and a decrease in non-renewable resources such as petroleum used in making herbicides," he said.

During the past 500 years, the nation has come from almost no cropland to more than 373 million acres.

"Cotton first came to the Mississippi Delta in 1722 at Natchez," Chapin said. "Early settlers also grew indigo, tobacco, rice and cattle."

Chapin said an untamed Mississippi River once meandered back and forth across the Delta from Greenwood to Greenville. In 1850, only 10 percent of the Delta had been cleared for crop production.

By 1899 about 5.3 million acres were in crop production in Mississippi. In the 1930s, this number had increased to 6.59 million acres.

"In 1977, the loss of topsoil from erosion in Mississippi averaged 10.2 tons per acre," Chapin said. "But a statewide three-year information and awareness campaign, conducted on a coordinated basis by 19 different groups and agencies, brought this loss down to 7.5 tons per acre. An erosion rate of five tons per acre is considered reasonable on most Mississippi row crop land."

Chapin said the major problems with erosion come when farmers start growing row crops on marginal land.

"Because of high commodity prices and other factors, farmers turn to marginal land for row crop production," he said. "Many of these soils have too much slope, are too wet, shallow, stony, dry or salty for efficient crop production."

The specialist said most of America's 370 million acres of nonfederal forest lands contain few major problems with erosion, except where grazing is allowed.

"Forest acreage has been declining since 1952," Chapin said. "This land is being converted to cropland, pastureland and urban areas. As conversion occurs, erosion increases."

"We must control erosion and also learn to live with a changing climate; to protect our groundwater from contamination, to save vanishing species and to control pollution," he said.

Hotline helping farmers amid financial crisis

By Tim Meeks
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Mississippi's farm problems are far from over, but an effort by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service is helping some farmers weather the storm.

The service's Farm Crisis Hotline has logged a total of 148 calls from financially strapped farmers since the toll-free service began April 7. The hotline is managed by the Extension Agricultural Economics Department.

Dr. Bob Williams, head of the department, said the service is helping farmers cope with problems related to general farm finances, legal matters and the possibility of alternative employment.

"The major problem from farmers we have talked to is their inability to generate a positive cash flow from their farm operation and consequently, their inability to obtain a farm operating loan," Williams said.

The source of most farm financial problems is a high debt load and continuing low income from farming, Williams said.

In addition to providing answers to questions, Extension Service specialists have made numerous follow-up visits to farms to get a better understanding of the individual's operation and problems.

Williams said a large part of the farmers using the hotline used the information to adjust their farm and financial plans for 1986. After these adjustments were made a number were then able to obtain financing from their lending institution to plant this spring's crop.

"Without some kind of professional assistance, many of these farmers may not have received a crop loan this year," Williams said.

Extension Economist Dr. Lennie Kizer, who helps administer the program, said while farmers in almost all areas of agriculture have used the hotline, row crop farmers and beef producers seem to be experiencing the most severe problems.

"It's difficult to show a profit in a specific year with many of these commodities," Kizer said.

Both Williams and Kizer agree that the poor farm economy in Mississippi is far from over.

"Although farmers have planted this year's crop, some will be faced with larger debts than profits this fall," Williams said. "At least 25 percent of our farmers are still experiencing severe financial difficulty."

Kizer said the hotline has helped farmers understand the importance of finances and particularly the value of record keeping. He said the program also should benefit others in the long run.

"As the farm picture eventually begins to improve, this will help local communities by putting more money into circulation," he said.

Plans call for making the hotline available to farmers through the spring of 1987. Farmers who need financial counseling are encouraged to call the toll-free number at 1-800-654-6237.

Mississippi Forestry Commission

NUMBER TWO CROP

Mississippi's forest industry, including private forest landowners, independent harvesting contractors, and company harvesting crews, harvested and delivered over $488 million worth of forest products to concentration yards, mills, and processors during 1985 according to a recent Cooperative Extension Service report.

Forest products were again ranked as the second most valuable agricultural crop in the State in 1985, exceeded only by cotton. (Poultry products are not considered in this ranking.)

Landowners received approximately $212 million for their standing timber and specialty products as their share of the harvest. The total revenue generated in Mississippi by forestry in 1985 is estimated at 1.9 billion dollars (using a value added multiplier of nine (9)).

The 1985 harvest of $488 million was nearly 8 percent lower than the 1984 harvest of $518 million, primarily due to decreases in price and harvest volumes in most categories.

What's next in the liability claims crunch?

Where is the recent rash of product and service liability claims and lawsuits headed? What are the basic effects? How can accompanying problems best be met by business and professional people?

These were key questions raised and discussed at a recent workshop sponsored by the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE), associated with the U.S. Small Business Administration.

"Some people call the condition a crisis, but legally it has not gone that far," said Biloxi Attorney John McDonnell, who addressed the workshop attendees. "Most of the claims have been justified, and although you can question some of the awards, many will contribute to the well being of the American people."

He cited cases related to the hazards of asbestos and dangerous chemicals, problems with poorly processed foods and drugs, along with faulty football helmets and faulty vehicles.

"Such cases need to be pursued and resolved," McDonnell said, "and you'll probably see an increasing number of them in the future."

At the same time, small and/or frivolous suits will diminish because the costs of suing for modest amounts tend to become prohibitive, he noted. Also, legal authorities and courts are questioning the frivolous ones particularly.

Another, perhaps more critical aspect of liability claims, involves insurance coverage. This hits all businesses as well as individuals because of the rise in premium rates across the board, whether or not a claim or lawsuit is involved.

John Thompson, president of the Gulfport insurance firm of Stewart-Snead-Hughes, stated that a variety of circumstances will sustain crisis conditions in this business. Increasing and high payments for liability claims is one. Another is economic conditions - specifically the lowering of interest rates on insurance company investments - have cut drastically into profitability ratios. Also, there have been no increases in insurance rates for many years, and suddenly the need for such increases became acutely evident.

"A number of insurance companies went broke because they kept their rates too low and then got trapped with high liability payments," Thompson reported. "That's not good for the economy."

Now, he noted, liability insurance is not only more costly but is also becoming harder to get. Some insurance companies have quit offering it. Businesses run considerable risks if they do not carry liability insurance, but what do they do now?

"Don't go without liability coverage," Thompson advised, "but you can evaluate your risk factors and then procure the basic limits that are affordable. You might increase deductibles to a point where you can cover remaining costs on your own. Eliminate frill coverages in your insurance program. Consult with your insurance representative about other possibilities of cutting costs safely."

Back on the legal front, Attorney McDonnell imparted some feeling of relief to smaller businesses by reporting that fewer small claims were getting into court. The cost of gathering necessary evidence for plaintiffs to prove their claims, as well as to pay legal fees tend to discourage lawsuits, he said. Some liability claims can take years to be resolved, and costs may mount prohibitively.

Winnable liability claims must be based on one or more factors, McDonnell reported. These are 1) proof of injury to the plaintiff, 2) negligence on the part of the manufacturer, seller or performer of service, 3) breach of a warranty, 4) error of commission, and/or 5) showing that a product involved was defective or unreasonably damaged when it left the manufacturer.

Malpractice suits and those involving food and drugs are in categories of their own, but certain basic factors apply. They can involve some of the "most massive" judgements, especially where serious, agonizing injury or illness are involved. Of course, the big ones are also the ones which get top media attention.

Then McDonnell tackled the primary question: How can a company or an individual avoid a product liability lawsuit?

"Make sure your product or service is as safe as it can reasonably be expected to be. If a product or service can be shown to have been negligently produced or performed, and leaves the factory (or performance point) in a defective or unsatisfactory condition, you can be in trouble."

"Carefully guard against potential injury, harm or damage to the recipient."

1890 Constitution requires too much updating

By Brad Chism

Governor Allain's Constitutional Study Commission continued its work with a day long meeting on June 25. The group debated the Executive Branch form of government with final votes on the exact structure scheduled for a July 9, meeting. As the study progresses, an increasing number of Commission members advocate a complete rewrite of the State Constitution. They argue for an elected convention of delegates to draft a proposed document for submission to the people for approval.

Members contend that the current document is in such bad shape that starting over would be better than trying to patch up a faulty one. A recent study by the Constitutional Commission Staff supports their claim. Of the original 285 sections in the 1890 Constitution, at least 62 have been altered in some form. Many of these sections have been addressed more than once, some as many as nine times.

Section 241, which deals with qualifications for voting, was first amended in 1920. Since then, there have been four successful attempts at changing the existing section. In 1960, the Legislature added a completely new subsection which was repealed less than five years later! Section 112, on taxation, has been the subject of proposed amendments six times, four of them successful. Less than six weeks ago, voters approved of changing this constitutional section despite having altered it as recently as 1982. Many political analysts predict another proposed amendment in the near future.

These two sections, while the most extreme examples, typify the problems with our 1890 Constitution. Altogether, efforts to change the document through amendments and/or repeal of sections (including unsuccessful attempts total 117. That amounts to an average of about once every ten months since the document was first drafted. Because the Legislature has found it necessary to submit 117 constitutional changes to the people, Commission members question the value of the original draft.

Those favoring a new Constitution point out that our United States Constitution, more than twice as old and governing one hundred times as many people, has been amended only 26 times. Whereas the U.S. Constitution is relatively brief and understandable, our state document, too long as first written, is made extremely complicated by all the alterations. Commission members allege that the lawyers of Mississippi have difficulty understanding the State Constitution, to say nothing of the average citizen.

In the coming months, the debate over the procedures for reform will heighten. Many legislative leaders argue that the section by section change is the best way. Most Commission members, however, feel that 117 attempts to improve the old Constitution is enough. In their eyes, we need to begin anew.

Lack of adult supervision tied to 300 drownings yearly

Shocked by the drowning of nearly 300 young children each year in residential swimming pools and spas, government safety experts are warning parents and pool owners to maintain constant, alert supervision of children in and around pools and spas.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, lack of constant supervision is one of the reasons why drowning is the fourth leading cause of death to children under five years of age. The agency said that of the 600 drownings in residential pools in 1982, nearly 300 were to children under five, and almost one-third were children below two years of age. Another 3,000 children under five were involved in submersion accidents, some resulting in permanent brain damage.

"It is vital that parents and caretakers be aware of steps they can take now to help reduce the high number of annual child drownings," said CPSC Commissioner Carol G. Dawson. "The most obvious precaution is constant supervision. Children are naturally curious and have the ability to crawl or walk quickly to the water's edge. One moment you have a healthy child, full of life, and the next minute that precious life is lost or damaged permanently. Continual supervision of children around swimming pools and spas is critical."

CPSC offered the following safety precautions for parents and pool owners:

* Never leave a child unsupervised near a pool. Be certain that children do not have access to the pool area through an open gate, open door or through an open window. Fence in the pool area completely, and install self-closing and self-locking gates. Latches should be located out of reach of young children.

* Flotation devices are not a substitute for adult supervision. Don't consider children "drown proof" because they have had swimming lessons. They should be supervised at all times.

* Keep toys and other objects attractive to children away from the pool area because a child playing with such toys could accidentally fall into the water.

* Never use a pool with the cover partly in place. Children could become entrapped under the cover.

* With above-ground pools, remove the steps leading to the pool whenever the pool is not being used.

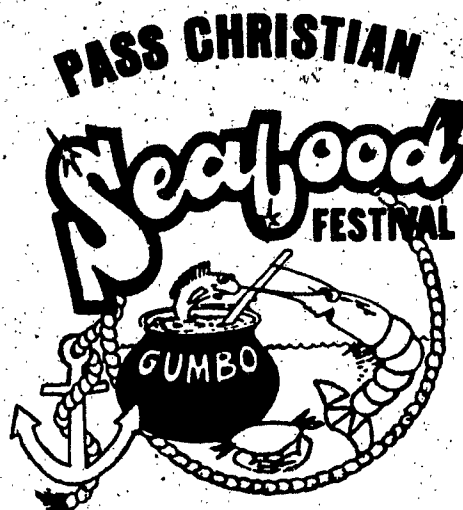

* Do not leave children unsupervised around a pool. A portable phone near the pool area should be considered during the outdoor pool season.

* Finally, learn how to perform cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in the event of a pool emergency. Never assume the victim is dead.

"We must all be alert to the dangers associated with pools and spas, and be sure we are prepared to handle an emergency should a drowning accident occur," Commissioner Dawson added.

Waveland aldermen, Oge' agree on election proposal

BY DENA BISNETTE

Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Superintendent Roger Oge' has agreed to consider a proposal for an elected school board. Oge', who said he attended Wednesday's Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting to introduce himself to the aldermen, expressed his agreement with Mayor John Longo Jr.'s proposal that all five members of the Bay school board be elected.

"I am in favor of any system that would give us a more equitable situation and more accountability," Oge' stated.

He said some of the problems with the current structure of the school board may be worked out through school reform legislation.

"We need to sit down and look at the Education Reform Act. A lot is still up in the air and when it is fully implemented, it could lead to changes," the superintendent said.

Longo had originally proposed an elected board July 2 when the city was presented with a proposed resolution opposing the purchase of trailer classrooms by the school district.

Because Waveland's zoning ordinance already contains a provision allowing trailer classrooms and because they have been allowed in the city in the past, the aldermen decided that they were unable to act on that issue.

The proposal that all five school board members be elected, however, was unanimously approved.

The board presently consists of three members appointed by the Bay St. Louis City Council and two elected from an area consisting of Waveland and adjacent parts of the county.

"I feel like we have a good board now," Longo said. "They are very conscious of money and I think they have now gained the respect of Bay St. Louis (in their handling of the kindergarten issue)."

"I'm flattered that when they need help they feel they can come to Waveland but right now there is really nothing we can do," he added.

Longo has repeatedly stated that although the present elected members, L.D. Carter and Linda Penrose, are both from Waveland, the city could be left without any representation on the school board at all by a future election.

"Conceivably, both elected members could be from Lakeshore or some other part of the outside territory next time and we could be left paying taxes without any say on what's done with the money," Longo said.

CINDERELLA OPERA—International opera star Frederica von Stade heads the cast of Gioacchino Rossini's sparkling operatic retelling of the story of Cinderella, encoring over PBS on Great Performances, Friday, July 25 at 9 p.m. This telecast of "La Cenerentola," as the opera is called in the original Italian in which it will be sung, is an expanded treatment of LaScala's acclaimed staging of the work, incorporating additional studio and location filming. Italian tenor Francesco Araiza stars as the prince. Unlike many other operatic versions, Rossini's is totally without supernatural elements. Jean-Pierre Ponnelle is director and designer; Claudio Abbado is the conductor.

Waveland to consider full-time dog warden

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen is considering changing the city dog warden's job from part-time to full-time.

Representatives of the Hancock County Animal Commission, the Hancock County Humane Society and Waveland Dog Warden Ed Ab-son met with the board Wednesday to request the change.

C.J. Dumestre Jr., spokesman for the group, told the board that 680 animals from Waveland were processed through the animal shelter off Gulfside Drive last year.

The 680 total does not include animals from Bay St. Louis and the county, which are also processed through the shelter.

He said Abson, who is presently working part-time, is "very dedicated to the animals" and "spends a lot of extra time at the shelter."

Dumestre said Abson is fully accredited under state animal control standards and with the assistance of the commission's veterinary advisor, Dr. H.W. LeBourgeois, is obtaining a permit that will enable him to administer rabies vaccinations for pets at the shelter.

Abson is already providing preliminary vaccinations for dogs and cats adopted through the shelter.

Mayor John Longo Jr. said the board will decide whether city animal warden should become a full-time job next month when the 1986-87 budget is considered.

"We feel strongly that we should give the man an increase because apparently both the program and personnel have progressed steadily," Longo said.

Ward Three Alderman Louis Smolensky, who serves as the city's representative on the commission, also recommended changing the dog warden job to full-time.

He also gave a personal recommendation for Abson.

"Mr. Abson has done an outstanding job. There have been many times we have called him at night and he has always come out to help," Smolensky said.

In other business Wednesday, the board:

—Took under advisement a proposal from Lee Klein for obtaining alternate natural gas suppliers for the city utility system;

—Approved an agenda request for the Aug. 5 meeting from Hancock County Historical Society President William Bradford, who wants to discuss sign ordinances and historical buildings;

—Approved permits for Leo Harp, who is starting a taxi service in Waveland, contingent upon receipt of insurance documents; and —Proclaimed Labor Day weekend Muscular Dystrophy Weekend in conjunction with Bay St. Louis and Hancock County.

The board will meet again at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 5 at city hall on Coleman Avenue.

Health Department reminds parents about immunizations

Back-to-school bargain shoppers should remember the best value of all: immunizations.

Immunizations protect children against polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus, and whooping cough. While vaccinations have greatly reduced occurrences of these diseases, the germs which cause them are still around and can attack unimmunized children.

The Mississippi State Department of Health recommends starting immunizations when an infant reaches two months of age, and state law requires children to be immunized before they enroll in school.

The State Department of Health also suggests vaccinating enrolling first graders during the summer months to avoid the back-to-school rush. To schedule a child for immunization, call a private physician or the Hancock County Health Department, 467-4510.

MRS. CHRIS COLIN FREDERICKSON

The marriage of Laurie Worthing Gex and Chris Colin Frederickson was solemnized Saturday, July 12 in an evening exchange of vows in a garden setting at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lucien Gex Sr. The Rev. Vernon Knight, pastor, Lutheran Church of the Pines, officiated at the double ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Marion Gex Jr. of Waveland. The groom's parents are Mrs. Patricia Frederickson and Mr. Charles Frederickson, both of El Campo, Tex.

Wrought iron candelabra with white tapers were flanked with large ferns and daisy chrysanthemums, forming the background under a stately oak tree.

Nuptial music was presented by a string ensemble from the Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore the gown worn by her mother on her wedding day. It was fashioned of bridal satin and Alencon lace and featured a sabrina neckline with embroidered Alencon lace vertical panels extending down the front of the skirt to the floor. Fitted three-quarter length sleeves tapered to soft gathers at the elbow and the skirt extended to a court train.

She wore a coronet of Alencon lace accented with lace flowerlets with a pouf of silk illusion secured by tiny ribbons extending to the waist.

The bride carried a stylized cascade of white roses, fuchsia and stephanotis against the background of her mother's bouquet, satin leaves trimmed with pearls.

Maury Pringle McCurdy of New Orleans was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were sisters of the bride, Leslie Grace Gex of New Orleans and Nancy Hamilton Gex of Waveland.

The attendants wore tea-length gowns of pink cotton damask, each fashioned with rounded scoop neckline with tiny buttons extending to the basque waistline, short sleeves and bell skirt.

They carried nosegays of bridal pink and white roses, English ivy and bouvardia against a background of starched white crochet doilies. Baby's breath and bridal pink roses adorned their hair.

Daniel Zalman of El Campo was best man.

Groomsmen were Lucien Gex III of Waveland, brother of the bride, and Kim Ivy of El Campo.

Mrs. Gex chose for her daughter's wedding a two-piece ensemble of ivory imported Val lace. The slim tea-length skirt was overlaid with a fitted V-neck jacket with long tapered sleeves and a self-rossette at the waist was bordered with re-embroidered schiffli lace.

The groom's mother was attired in a two-piece linen design with jewel neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. An embroidered cutwork design adorned the sleeves and bordered the hemline of the skirt.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Gex home.

On return from a wedding cruise, the couple will reside in El Campo.

Smith-Boyd

Nena Elaine Boyd became the bride of Robert Morris Smith in an evening ceremony June 21 at Little Flower Catholic Church in Mobile, Ala., with the Rev. Paedar Dalton officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Boyd and the granddaughter of Mrs. Carmelita Saucier, all of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Smith of Mobile.

Musical selections were presented by Michael Smith of Mobile.

Flower laden brass candelabra decorated the sanctuary and glass lanterns adorned with greenery and bows lined the center aisle.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over bridal taffeta. The high neckline was outlined in silk venise lace beaded with pearls and iridescents and the sheer yoke and bodice were appliqued with motifs of silk venise lace. The long, fitted sleeves were trimmed in matching lace and closed at the wrist with covered buttons. The full skirt extended to a cathedral length train, finished with tiers of silk organza ruffles, which also trimmed the hemline.

She wore a silk veil of illusion attached to a wreath of silk flowers interspersed with pearl sprays.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, miniature carnations and stephanotis.

Catherine Townsend Westfall of Clearwater, Fla. was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Treva Boyd Thornton of Bay St. Louis, sister of the bride; Alan Carlson Young of Beaufort, S.C. and Melissa Halford of Mobile.

Flower girls were Erin Nelson and Tara Smith of Mobile, nieces of the groom.

Attendants were attired in gowns of royal blue taffeta, each with off-the-shoulder double ruffle and fitted bodice. The full length skirt was attached at a basque waistline. They carried crystal goblets centered with candles decorated with roses, mini-carnations and heather in spring colors.

Richard Smith served his son as best man.

Groomsmen were David P. Smith and Paul D. Smith, brothers of the groom and Devin Dedeaux, all of Mobile.

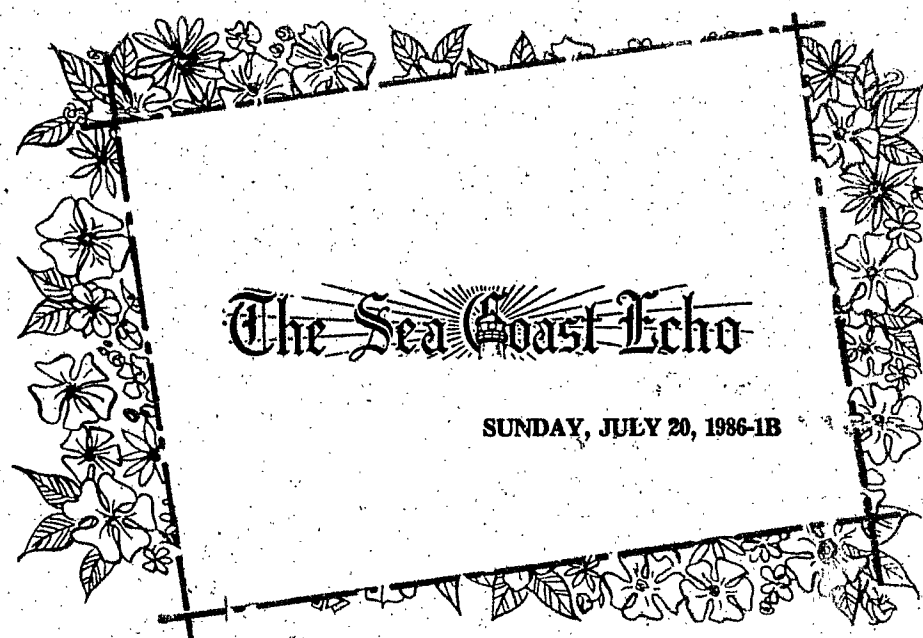

Ushers were John D. Smith of Mobile, brother of the groom, and James Omer Boyd of Bay St. Louis, brother of the bride.

Thomas Thornton of Bay St. Louis, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Boyd chose for her daughter's wedding a mauve double breasted ensemble of silk crepe. The loose fitting jacket was worn over an ecru silk shell. Mrs. Smith was attired in a silver grey dress featuring a dropped waistline over a slightly flared skirt.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the groom's parents. Serving were Lauren Nelson, Donnelly Nelson, Allison Dupree and Robin Smith, all of Mobile, and Tina Thornton and Shaun Brokmeyer of Bay St. Louis.

On return from a wedding trip to the Florida Keys, the couple will reside in Mobile.

SECOND BIRTHDAY—Dana Marie Kimmel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kimmel of Bay St. Louis celebrated her second birthday at McDonald's in Waveland with friends and family. She is the granddaughter of Beverly Ortiz of Bay St. Louis and the late Vincente Ortiz Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. James F. Kimmel of Bay St. Louis. bellum days - and on the small farmer's lands as well!

And, on Midwest farms and elsewhere, the rule was, "Blow a whistle, when the water's boiling to call them all to table, then pick the corn and husk it." These days, when most of us have to buy our corn at the markets, be sure at least to purchase the ears with the husks still on them, and don't husk them until you're ready to cook them. And beware of boiling ears of corn too long, lest you toughen them.

Have you ever wondered what our country would be like if the Indians had not shared their corn with the early colonists? As Captain John Smith wrote in his journal in those long-gone days, the colonists would have starved to death way back in 1601 if the Indians had not brought corn to them - "maize" - the "bread of life" as the Indians called it.

And, had it not been for the discovery of corn which the Indians had buried in baskets on Cape Cod, what would have happened to the Plymouth colonists, who used the corn for planting in the Spring, after the Mayflower had sailed away, leaving them on the new, wild shores of America?

The Pilgrims even used corn as money - paying rent and debts and taxes with it. As the country expanded, corn kernels went along with the settlers to their new homes, and many a wagon train depended upon cornbreads as the staff of life on the long trek Westward.

Corn is still one of my favorite foods, especially so at this time of year when it's in such supply and at its succulent best.

So, enjoy it, freshly boiled for a scant few minutes, lavishly buttered and peppered, or fresh corn kernels cooked down with bell (green) peppers and onions and tomatoes, or in

'Speaking Oracles of God'

—1 Peter 4:11

By W. Edwin Kearley, Minister

501 Pine St.

Bay St. Louis

"THOU SHALT NOT KILL"

Where there is no faith in God, life is cheap. God, who revealed the Bible, places great premium on the life of man. The one thing that has raised man from brutality of man to respect for the life and person of man is the faith produced by the Bible.

The law of Moses commanded, "For it is the life of all flesh: Therefore I said unto the children of Israel, ye shall eat the blood of no manner of flesh: for the life of all flesh is the blood thereof: whosoever eateth it shall be cut off." (Lev. 17:14)

In the Jerusalem conference concerning the right of Gentiles to become Christians, they agreed the Holy Spirit revealed the Gentiles were to receive the gospel.

However, these converts of the Gentiles were to be taught, "that ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and from blood, and from things strangled..." (Acts 15:29) These commands concerning blood built respect for life.

The first murder was committed by a man against his own brother. God had told Cain and Abel to offer an animal sacrifice in worship to him. Cain brought of the fruit of the ground for his sacrifice. God respected Abel's offering but he had no respect for Cain's offering.

"...And Cain was very wrath, and his countenance fell...And it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother and slew him." (Gen. 4:3-8)

God said to Cain, "...What hast thou done? The voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground. And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand...a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth." (Gen. 4:10-12)

The Ten Commandments God placed on stone and gave to Moses contain the command, "Thou shalt not kill." (Ex. 20:30)

The penalty depended on the circumstances. A willful taking of another's life demanded the taking of the killer's life. (Ex. 21:12-15)

Jesus condemned not only the overt act but the thought of murder. "Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgement: But I say unto you, that whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgement..." (Matt. 5:21-22)

Paul taught, "Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men. Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." (Rom. 12:17-21)

Doing good for evil has the effect of causing the conscience of the evil doer to cause the body heat to produce perspiring.

Of the civil government Paul said, "For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil. Capital punishment is still for the murderer."

May we elevate in our thinking the worth of human life.
